Position Overview

This position will lead the Monitoring and Evaluation (M&E) component of the USDA Food for Progress Tunisia Project. This area is responsible for monitoring activities and measuring progress during project implementation, according to the Work Plan, indicators and their corresponding goals, objectives, changes, effects, and expected impact. M&E guides and ensures compliance with quality standards during the processes of capture, processing, analysis, and reporting, contributing useful and timely information for strategic decision-making of the project.

This position reports directly to the Chief of Party. The M&E Director will be based in Tunis (Tunisia).

The M&E Director will have the following main objectives:

- Formulate MEL plan and systems for capturing data and pertinent information on project activities, beneficiaries, outputs, outcomes, and impact.
- Provide leadership, training, and mentoring to carry out MEL activities, including designing tools, conducting data collection and analysis, and sharing and utilizing data to evaluate and enhance program impact.

- Effectively implement data collection and reporting systems to all staff and partners through training, site visits, manuals, and other necessary technical support.
- Collaborate across the project to ensure alignment to targets and indicators contained in the project proposal and utilize information from the MEL systems (Activityinfo) and tools to enhance program effectiveness.
- Facilitate the collection and use of qualitative data and implementation learning to facilitate collaborating, learning, and adapting (CLA), including participating in special studies to answer learning agenda.
- Coordinate and support baseline, mid-term, and final evaluations.
