Align Your Objectives With Company Goals and Your Team's Objectives
Your efforts are critical to helping "Achieve CASH FLOW and Build for Success Next Year!" Each of your objectives should connect as directly as possible to the company's goals, as well as your team's objectives, which you should discuss with your manager.

Make Your Objectives SMART
Specific – Clearly define the outcome that you want to achieve

Measurable – Specify how you will measure/track progress and completion

Achievable – You should raise the bar, yet be able to reach the objective

Realistic – Consider available resources (time, capital, people, etc.)

Time-sensitive – Set a due date for achievement of each objective

How Will Success Be Measured and/or Tracked?
Success should be clearly defined in each area with agreed-upon metrics and/or measureable targets that can be tracked for both progress and completion. Indicate clearly how you will measure success for each objective.

Instructions: Core Objectives – The What – Weight 70%

Your core objectives should contribute to the company's achievement of the operating income plan by ensuring CASH FLOW objectives are met as follows:

Close each home in each community – on time

Aggressively renegotiate land deals and accelerate projects

Sell to build the backlog now

Help each other – we're a team

Foster outstanding financing relationships

Lay low on spending – act like every dollar is yours because it is!

Over-achieve plans – business, financial, phasing and project

Wow! Customers – internal and external

PLEASE NOTE: You no longer need to specify the category (core) in the title.
Number of Core Objectives = 2 or 3. You do not need to use all the boxes.

Core Objectives

Core Objective Title: _____ Date: _____

Detailed Description:

How will success be measured and/or tracked?

Instructions: Special Objectives – The How – Weight 15%

Your special objectives should be behavioral and qualitative in nature and should be directly related to the company's Principles of Ownership, below. The intent is to elevate these principles to daily practice.

Principles of Ownership

We have adopted these principles to continually build and renew a culture of accountability and ownership:

- We are all ONE COMPANY
- We trust in positive intentions – and we can't stand finger pointing
- We communicate, not triangulate – we address problems and conflict directly by going straight to the source
- We hold ourselves and each other accountable – we honour our commitments and do what we say we're going to do
- We practice team together, team apart – we encourage open, healthy debate and once a decision is made we support it when we're together and even more importantly, when we're not
- We lead (and follow) by example – actions speak louder than words
- We operate with speed and agility – we hate bureaucracy and red tape
- We view feedback as a gift
- We delight our customers and each other
- We encourage each other to ask the tough questions

PLEASE NOTE: You no longer need to specify the category (special) in the title.
Number of Special Objectives = 1 or 2. You do not need to use all the boxes.
