Re: Funding Opportunity Number: SPOP0009274

Dear Mr. McPhail:

The Capítulo de La Paz y el Altiplano, Bolivia, is pleased to support Partners of the Americas' proposal submission to the U.S. Department of State, Bureau of Education and Cultural Affairs to continue the Education and Culture Program.

As you know, The Capítulo de La Paz y el Altiplano, Bolivia, has received grant funding through the program, while leveraging its own resources locally, to build lasting relationships between Utah in the United States and La Paz in Bolivia through the exchange of artists, teachers, and other professionals. Our local and counterpart chapters have experienced first-hand that the Education and Culture Program contributes greatly to creating and strengthening lasting partnerships between the people of the Americas. For example, with the support of the Education and Culture program we were able to create 3 programs that impacted our community like Loving Wawas Project that gives poor children the opportunity to learn English, Loving Yatichaña Program, an idea the give the rural teacher the opportunity to improve their strategies about how teach and The environmental school, a program that helps to create awareness to take care of the Titicaca Lake.

With continued support from Partners of the Americas' Education and Culture Program, our Chapter would be able to enhance activities that promote meaningful and lasting ties across our societies; expanding opportunities and improving the quality of life of diverse and underserved populations.

Dear Mr. McPhail:

The Chapter Red Espaz Peru is pleased to support Partners of the Americas' proposal submission to the U.S. Department of State, Bureau of Education and Cultural Affairs to continue the Education and Culture Program.

As you know, Red Espaz Perú has received grant funding through the program, while leveraging its own resources locally, to build lasting relationships between Texas, Washington D.C. in the United States and Chiclayo, Peru through the exchange of artists, teachers, and other professionals. Our local and counterpart chapters have experienced first-hand that the Education and Culture Program contributes greatly to creating and strengthening lasting partnerships between the people of the Americas. For example, with the support of the Education and Culture program we trained more than 200 youth and children on leadership, culture of peace and nonviolence, through our Schools of Leaders for Peace and the "Estamos Contigo" (We are with you) project.

With continued support from Partners of the Americas' Education and Culture Program, our Chapter would be able to enhance activities that promote meaningful and lasting ties across our societies; expanding opportunities and improving the quality of life of diverse and underserved populations.

We wish you the best in this initiative and look forward to continue working with you to promote mutual understanding and address common challenges in the Western Hemisphere.

Dear Mr. McPhail:

The Chapter Compañeros de las Américas Perú is pleased to support Partners of the Americas' proposal submission to the U.S. Department of State, Bureau of Education and Cultural Affairs to continue the Education and Culture Program.

As you know, our chapter has received grant funding through the program, while leveraging its own resources locally, to build lasting relationships between Texas in the United States and Perú through the exchange of artists, teachers, and other professionals. Our local and counterpart chapters have experienced first-hand that the Education and Culture Program contributes greatly to creating and strengthening lasting partnerships between the people of the Americas.

For example, Laura Barrenechea, member of the chapter, was invited by Texas and Washington DC Chapters, from August 22 to September 10, 2022, to Know about programs aimed at dealing with gender violence and various forms of discrimination, which will allow the implementation of new approaches of our Chapter.

With the support of the Education and Culture program we also implemented a small project in regards of rural education and access to education for teachers in the highlands of Peru, Huaraz.

With continued support from Partners of the Americas' Education and Culture Program, our Chapter would be able to enhance activities that promote meaningful and lasting ties across our societies; expanding opportunities and improving the quality of life of diverse and underserved populations.

We wish you the best in this initiative and look forward to continue working with you to promote mutual understanding and address common challenges in the Western Hemisphere.

Re: Funding Opportunity Number: SPOP0009274

Dear Mr. McPhail:

The Chapter El Salvador is pleased to support Partners of the Americas' proposal submission to the U.S. Department of State, Bureau of Education and Cultural Affairs to continue the Education and Culture Program.

As you know, Chapter El Salvador has received grant funding through the program, while leveraging its own resources locally, to build lasting relationships between the United States and El Salvador, through the exchange of artists, teachers, and other professionals. Our local chapter has experienced first-hand that the Education and Culture Program contributes greatly to creating and strengthening lasting partnerships between the people of the Americas. For example, with the support of the Education and Culture program we impact/result of last project youth social participation through art.
Dissemination of urban art through art workshops, for young people and adolescents with limited economic resources, from communities with a high rate of violence, in the Municipality of Soyapango, Department of San Salvador, with which:

15 young people acquired knowledge in drawing and painting, through the development of 10 workshops in said area

10 training workshops were held in the area of percussion and batucada and 12 young people from vulnerable communities participated.

5 young people were instructed in festival animation, with which they acquired the logistical capacity to organize their own artistic events

180 young people from three vulnerable communities in Soyapango participated in an artistic festival to expose the achievements of the young people who were trained in art workshops. With which a healthy social coexistence was obtained.

With continued support from Partners of the Americas' Education and Culture Program, our Chapter would be able to enhance activities that promote meaningful and lasting ties across our societies; expanding opportunities and improving the quality of life of diverse and underserved populations.

We wish you the best in this initiative and look forward to continue working with you to promote mutual understanding and address common challenges in the Western Hemisphere.

Re: Funding Opportunity Number: SPOP0009274

Dear Mr. McPhail:

The Paraíba-Brasil Chapter is pleased to support Partners of the Americas' proposal submission to the U.S. Department of State, Bureau of Education and Cultural Affairs to continue the Education and Culture Program.

As you know, Paraíba Brasil Chapter has received grant funding through the program, while leveraging its own resources locally, to build lasting relationships between states/estados in the United States and Brazil through the exchange of artists, teachers, and other professionals. Our local and counterpart chapters have experienced first-hand that the Education and Culture Program contributes greatly to creating and strengthening lasting partnerships between the people of the Americas. For example, with the support of the Education and Culture program we managed to impart musical / artistic education to needy young students from public schools(about 1,500 pupils in 4 surrounding towns, João Pessoa, Bayeux, Santa Rita, Cabedelo)by means of educational concerts/workshops, with the aid of 15 classical musicians (string instruments) by telling folkloric stories - Saci Pererê in the land of music,with the Brazilian Northeast popular music. Thus, the participants of the Project's performance caused a great visual , sonorous impact on students ,teachers, parents and the rest of the audience. Finally ,we reinforce our commitment with the ODS – 4 (Education with Quality) , as well as with the aims of the Partners of the Americas .

With continued support from Partners of the Americas' Education and Culture Program, our Chapter would be able to enhance activities that promote meaningful and lasting ties across our societies; expanding opportunities and improving the quality of life of diverse and underserved populations.

We wish you the best in this initiative and look forward to continue working with you to promote mutual understanding and address common challenges in the Western Hemisphere.

Sincerely,
