Objectives and Activities

For the additional 12 months of funding, POA proposes to build off the Mexican labor reform to be rolled out throughout the next four years. The additional funding and project implementation period will allow project initiatives to strengthen and reinforce the changes that the labor reform will bring. Although the labor reform is already being rolled out, it is just the beginning of a larger overhaul, and with the additional months of implementation the project will be able to identify the strengths and weaknesses of the reform. In this sense, the project will be able to equip civil society organizations, labor unions, and the private sector with the tools necessary to address and implement the challenges and opportunities associated with the labor reform relevant to the United 2026 games. In addition, 12 additional months will bring us closer to the start of the games, therefore, increasing public attention for all topics surrounding the World Cup. POA sees these additional months as an opportunity to build off the awareness that the public will begin to acquire as the Qatar 2020 World Cup ends and the qualifying stage for the 2026 World Cup begins. Furthermore, the project will aim to diligently monitor and include lessons learned and best practices from the Qatar 2020 World Cup in regards to labor and human rights, as well as implement our own best practices after having implemented the project for two and a half years to better empower and assist civil society organizations in preparation for the 2026 World Cup in Mexico.
